RECENT INVENTIONS.

A newly designed bust form for dress-makers' use is made of a series of non-collapsible rigid vertical stays, with adjustable cross bands attached by means of clamps, so they can be expanded until the proper shape and size is obtained.

A new medical inhaler for diseases of the head and throat passages is composed of a waterproof fabric, to be stretched over the mouth and nose, with an atomizer at one side to produce vapor from the medicine for the patient to breathe.

Baby cribs are being placed on the market which can be folded up in small space when not in use, the frame being formed of hinged members which lock fast when opened to support a canvas crib which is attached to a pivoted framework.

To prevent dust from getting on the chains and gear wheels of a bicycle the chain is surrounded by a pair of telescopic tubes, with drums at the ends to cover the gears, the shafts projecting through small holes in the side of the drums.

To raise bread dough after it has been kneaded a new raising pan is fitted with a reservoir underneath which is filled with warm water to heat the dough to the right temperature without the necessity of placing it on the stove, where it might dry out or burn.

In a newly designed poultry feeder a double cone is placed in a frame with the upper cone much larger than the smaller one to hold a large quantity of grain and the lower one opening downward into a round tray with a flange around its edge to prevent waste of the feed.

In a new block signal system for railroads the signals are operated automatically by the passing train, which closes the block as it enters and opens it as it enters the next block, which is in turn closed, thus telling the next engineer if there is a train close ahead of him.

FASHION'S MIRROR.

Red blowaways are the newest at- trgettes for evening wear, and red girdles hover over blue roses.

Black trimmings predominate on high-colored dresses, even for the house, to soften and tone down the excess of color.

Gray and red make a pretty mixture, and both are well worn. Watered silk poplin is new, and is certainly a very good wearing material.

The fashionable parasols have wonderful handles, the latest taking the semblance of a horse chestnut bursting from its prickly sheath.

The most jeweled belts are worn. Sometimes steel, with amethyst, very often turquoise set in silver or leather with jewels down the center.

Black cloth jackets are now trimmed with white lace applique, and very smart they look, especially when they open over white watered silk waistcoats.

It is remarkable how much vivid red is worn both in the day and evening; even young girls have poppy-red straw hats, surrounded with a ruche of the same shade, with an aigrette at the back, sometimes black, mostly red.

Royal blue is a color which appears frequently in the trimming of otherwise sober cloth gowns. One fetching little bicycle suit of tan Melton has coat revers faced with royal blue moire.

The demand for printed silk muslin of a filmy texture is hardly equal to the supply. It makes the most stylish bodices and sleeves, falls into the softest folds, and seems capable of taking a lovely range of colors.—Boston Budget.

Made a Buttonhole Large Enough for the Soldier's Improvised Button.

The private soldier, washing at a home station is usually done by the married soldiers' wives, who are expected to sew on missing buttons and do general repairs. Patrick McGinnis, says the Troy Times, had a good deal of trouble with his laundress. Sunday after Sunday had his shirt come back with the collar button off or else hanging by a thread. He had spoken to her on the subject, and she had promised to see to it; but still the buttons were always missing. One Sunday he got out of patience when a missing button had made him late for church parade. "Bad luck to the woman!" he exclaimed. "Begorra, I'll give her a hint this time, anyhow!" He then took the lid of a tin blacking box about three inches in diameter, drilled two holes in it with a fork and sewed it on the shirt, which he sent to be washed. When his washing came back he found his laundress had taken the hint. She had made a buttonhole to fit it!

Useless Royal Barges.

Queen Victoria's watermen are disgruntled at having no part in the jubilee procession, the more so that the queen has never made use of her state barges. She has two of them, kept at Teddington, which should be rowed with two watermen to an oar. The uniform consists of scarlet jacket, waistcoat, breeches and stockings, with a remarkable black jockey cap and low shoes. On the front and back of the jacket is an enormous royal badge. The barge has only been used once, when the prince of Wales and Khedive Ismail of Egypt were taken by water to Richmond.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

THE TRIUMPH OF LOVE

Happy and Fruitful Marriage.

Every MAN who would know the GRAND TRUTHS, the Plain Facts, the Old Secrets and the New Discoveries of Medical Science as applied to Married Life, who would atone for past follies and avoid future pitfalls, should write for our wonderful little book, called "Complete Manhood and How to Attain It." To any earnest man we will mail one copy Entirely Free, in plain sealed cover.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

Choosing a Husband.

George Elliot says one of her novels, that almost any woman can marry any man she makes up her mind to. Whether this is truth or fiction, certainly a woman chooses her husband oftener than he knows it. But she must play the negative part. She cannot make herself as attractive as possible in a modest, womanly way and rely upon human nature and mainly instinct.

A sensible man naturally seeks a whole-some-looking, healthy, capable companion. Men are not unselfish enough to willingly assume the care of a weak, nervous, debilitated wife.

Men are not attracted by a sallow, pimply complexion, foul breath, or thin, emaciated form, because these symptoms are the sure index of poor digestion and impoverished blood.

A woman afflicted by these mortifying miseries should seek the powerful, purifying and nutritional influence of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which completely dispels all unwholesome appearances by clearing and renovating the organic sources of beautiful vitality.

It helps the liver to filter all bilious impurities from the blood. It gives the digestive organs power to extract nourishment from the food. It rounds out thin forms; wipes away wrinkles, and gives to the complexion its natural clearness and bloom.

"Your 'Golden Medical Discovery' cured me of a severe case of poisoning of the blood," writes Mrs. Selia Rice, of Costa Santa Cruz Co., Cal. "Boils one after another would break out on my arms, and were very painful. I have tried the loudest praised Sarsaparillas without any benefit whatever, and not until I took your 'Discovery' did I get well. That was two years ago, and I have not had a boil or sore of any kind since."

WHERE ELEPHANTS ARE PLENTY

An African Sportsman Says the Big Game Is Far from Extinct.

It has been a common cry of late years that, with the amount of shooting that goes on nowadays in Africa, the game animals must, within measurable distance of time, become extinct. Some ingenious statisticians have harmlessly employed their spare time in calculating how many years of existence are left to the African elephant as a species, and prophesy its extinction within the present generation. Within the last week I have had two letters from friends who are shooting in the interior, one bearing date November, from the northeast, the other dated January, from the southeast. I am not going to give any better clue to the equality of my correspondents' shooting grounds, for reasons sportsmen will appreciate. The former has for weeks seen elephants in family parties every day and all day; they don't seem to know what a rifle is, and, if I wanted, I might kill a score a day or more. My southeastern correspondent complains sport with trade in ivory, and writes that, on his present trip, he has killed 10 elephants, besides two lions and a heavy bag of antelopes and other game. He says: "In the country I have just passed through elephants are in most astonishing numbers, as also buffaloes, and, in fact, all the animals I have named," some 17 species. In the locality he refers to elephant shooting has to be done on foot, and it is such hard work under the local conditions that the animals are not so safe. I do not wish to promulgate an idea that protective measures are necessary—they are necessary in many parts of Africa; but I am sorry to hear from reliable sportsmen that there are districts where the elephant is plentiful and likely to continue so.—London Sketch.

THE DIFFERENCE IN TARIFF SCHEDULES.

Charles H. Evans, a Treasury expert, who has been engaged in the preparation of all tariff bills that have been before Congress since 1872, has completed a comparison of the new tariff law with the Wilson Act. The comparison in the rates is expressed in ad valorem terms of the two Tariff Acts. The expert's statement places the average duty rates under the new law at 54.66 per cent ad valorem, as against an average of 40.10 per cent under the Wilson law. The averages are figured upon the basis of values in 1893.

The difference in the schedules of the McKinley and the Wilson bills was a fraction over 11 per cent, and the difference in the schedules of the Wilson bill and the new law is a fraction over 14 per cent, that is, the new bill is three and one-half per cent higher on an average than the McKinley bill.

If the opinion of the tariff expert is correct there is, therefore, only 14 per cent difference between a tariff bill that impoverishes the country and one that sends waves of prosperity, high as the Sierra Nevada, chasing each other over the land. If the theory of the advocates of the present tariff, that the higher the tariff and the better opportunity given the trusts to fleece the public, is correct, then times should henceforth, while the new tariff law remains in force, be much better than they were under the McKinley Act, as the tariff is higher now than it was then.

We have been repeatedly told by the trust organs that all that was necessary to make the country prosperous was to restore confidence. The passage of a tariff bill on the lines of the McKinley bill, they claimed, would accomplish that desirable end. Now we have such a bill on the Statutes and, of course, confidence is fully restored. The banks and the manufacturers will, as they undoubtedly should, set an example in this confidence business. They will trust merchants and the merchants will trust consumers so that the people will have ample proof that confidence is fully restored and that henceforth the country will be prosperous, a consummation devoutly to be wished.

SUSPENDING SILVER COINAGE AT SAN FRANCISCO.

Frank A. Leach, the new Superintendent of the San Francisco Mint, was inducted into office last Saturday. An order suspending the coinage of silver was received from Washington at the same time and created some surprise as it was wholly unexpected. Simultaneously with the promulgation of the suspension order, thirty-two persons, eight women and twenty-four men, were dismissed from the Mint.

No cause is assigned for the suspension of silver coinage. There is a stock of bullion sufficient to coin $3,400,000 on hand and the Mint has been coining about $900,000 a month in silver.

If silver coinage should be resumed the force at the Mint will again be increased, but it is not probable that all of those who were discharged will be reinstated. Under the civil service law the names of those discharged are kept on the list, but selections may be made from all who have passed the civil service examination and are eligible, so that many of those discharged may not be reinstated as they are not preferred eligibles.

Under the regulations now in force the new Superintendent has not a single appointment. He is required to accept every employe now in the Mint and can only discharge persons for cause and then must present written charges against them and give them a hearing.

The Seattle Chamber of Commerce has memorialized the Secretary of the Treasury to abolish the privilege heretofore extended to Canadians of bonding goods in transit through American territory, and to rescind the order establishing sub-ports at Dyess, Circle City and Skagway. This action is in retaliation for the unjustifiable measures proposed by Canada.

Two men, who gave the names of Harry Duff and F. H. Edgar, and supposed to be noted crooks, fought a duel in a Denver lodging house. One was instantly killed and the other fatally wounded. The men arrived at Denver together and slept in the same room. It is thought that they quarrelled over a division of plunder.

The steamer Queen brings the latest news from Klondyke. The Canadian mounted police meet gold seekers at the lode and compel all who have not a year's provisions to return to the coast. As supplies cannot be carried to the gold fields fast enough the danger of starving before Spring is very great.

The San Francisco Mint has reopened and is now coining Klondyke gold. The whole amount of Alaska gold accumulated at the mint since it closed is about $800,000. It is reported that a vessel is on the way down from Alaska with $2,000,000 in gold dust aboard, but the report has not been confirmed.

Six hundred and forty head of steers, the first importation under the new law from Mexico, have passed through the custom house at Nogales, Arizona. The duty on the importation was $1,296 more than under the Wilson Act.

Boston-Nevada Copper Company.

Work is progressing rapidly on the Boston-Nevada Copper Company's smelter and mines in Mason Valley, says the Dayton Times. The plant will be completed inside of a month. A shaft has been sunk 120 feet deep on the Dobbin claim and water having been struck, sinking has been stopped until a hoisting works and pumping machinery can be put in. Drifting for the ledge, which is supposed to be from 30 to 60 feet distant, is now progressing. More men have been put to work on the McConnell claim, and three shifts are now being worked, four men to a shift. Other development work is being done and the outlook is promising.

Delegates Appointed.

Governor Sadler has appointed the following named persons delegates to the National Irrigation Congress which meets at Lincoln, Nebraska, September 28th: J. H. Thies, Lovelock; George Russell, Elko; J. P. Raines, Potosi; R. H. Kinney, Reno; L. H. Taylor, Battle Mountain.

The Governor also appointed the following named persons delegates to the Farmers' National Congress, which meets at St. Paul, Minnesota, from August 31st to September 6th, including: Robert Bailey, Carson; Frank Lewis, Washoe county; S. P. Davis, Carson; Ormsby county.

A New Construction of the Law.

The County Clerk of Alameda county, California, has put a new construction upon the recently enacted marriage law of California which is causing a good deal of comment among the legal fraternity. He holds that the law forbidding the issuance of a marriage license to persons who have been divorced within one year of the date of their application does not apply to those who have been divorced in other States than California and has already granted a license to a couple, one of whom was recently divorced in Massachusetts.

More prize fights have taken place in San Francisco the past month than have taken place in Nevada in the last twenty years, and we have seen no moral criticisms in the California and Eastern press. Let a fight take place in this state and moral criticism comes from all parts of the country. Funny, isn't it?

Some idea of the scarcity of coin may be gained by the fact that Treasurer Madden was unable to get coin on checks with which to pay off county warrants, and was compelled to go below after it. The money due from the State on smallpox, orphan and indigent claims was paid into the bank at Sacramento, and as there is no express running, it could not be shipped.

Eastern followers of cycling are taking great interest in what is called the pursuit race. Two teams compete. The team consist of a star and the other members are merely for the purpose of pacing. Lots are drawn and one team is given a start of from a quarter of a lap to a lap. The race ends at a certain distance in case the rear starter does not pass the first man or at any time the back man passes the lead. The method is said to be highly exciting.

THE RESULT OF THE CLEAN-UP.

What the Carload of Olinghouse Ore Showed.

The carload of placers from the Hutchinson Mine at Olinghouse Canyon which was shipped to the Reno Reduction Works in order to obtain a quantitative test, has been worked; a clean-up made and a bar of gold bullion, now in the possession of Sheriff McInnis is the substantial evidence that the hope and belief of the promoters of Olinghouse is no dream, but an established fact. Unlike some other mining districts in Nevada that have boomed their possibilities on paper, the projectors of the Olinghouse mines have worked quietly and within their means, which were limited, but within a few months have succeeded in producing evidence of the stability and possibilities of their mine by showing a bar of gold bullion that will bring them value.

The carload of placers shipped to the Reno Reduction Works consisted of six tons taken promiscuously from the dumps. The destruction, which was done, was not a clean-up, but just what it would have been, had the Reduction Works been there to make a thorough test of such a mine.

Value of the clean-up is as follows: One bar of bullion, with 18 1/2 ounces. Value of silver at 60 cts. $2.21. Value of gold at $20.67. $205.77.

Total value $207.98. Or in round numbers the placers paid at the rate of $13 per ton for the working, which is considered a good return. In addition to this there is a small percentage of gain in the residue and concentrates which might add from 50 cents to $1 a ton to the placers.

The cost of milling the dirt is $5.50 to the ton, allowing an excellent profit, and it is claimed that the quantity of placers to be obtained is almost unlimited.

The test has also developed the fact that it is needless to have the stuff worked by a complicated or scientific process, as it can be thoroughly handled by sluicing. It is now the intention of the owners of the mine to have the placers hauled to Wadsworth where water can be had, and sluices of an improved pattern will be utilized.

Messrs. Hamlin, Gould and Folsom, who are interested in the mine next to the Hutchinson, will send a load of provisions and men down this morning and work will be commenced in earnest.

Everything now bids fair that Olinghouse will boom and within thirty days a camp of no mean proportions will be an established fact.

FOR AN OUTING.

Prominent Men of Reno Bound for Grizzly.

Hon. S. Summerfield, Hon. F. H. Norcross, T. W. Boalt and W. H. Noyes were busy yesterday piling up bacon, ham, beans and other staples provisions in such quantities as would indicate an overland trip to the Klondyke. Upon inquiry it was found that they were bound for Grizzly Valley and will start this morning. They propose to live, while they are there, judging by the immense quantity of provisions, but when one comes to think of it, every member of the party needs something of this kind for the whole outfit looks hungry. In fact, barring brains, the Journal man will outweigh any two of them combined.

However, the party is a merry one and will doubtless have many tales to tell of capturing the speckled beauties (rashers of bacon) seasoned with spiders and ants, stalking the deer in its native haunts (some farmer's mutton sheep), or a battle with the King of the Sierras, the grizzly, (some last porker).

Of course, their friends will anxiously await their return, and if Summerfield or Frank Norcross gain in flesh, not to mention Tom Boalt or Will Noyes, the reputation of Grizzly Valley will be established beyond question as a rejuvenator of youth and conducive, by virtue of its products of game, fish and buttermilk, of adipose tissue in a remarkable degree.

Fugitive Possibilities.

The Examiner has the following: "Many rumors have been heard lately to the effect that Dan Stuart and 'Billy' Brady intended arranging opposition fistic carnivals in the cities of Reno and Carson during the Nevada State Fair in October. It is now reasonably certain that Stuart has given up the idea and that Brady will have the field to himself.

"The following telegram received last night is in a measure self-explanatory: "Al. Ellinghouse, Columbia Theater, San Francisco: Go ahead arranging carnival. What subscription will Reno guarantee? Can arrange Carson. Stuart out. Answer. New York.

"W. A. Brady." It now remains for Reno to say whether she wants a fistic carnival or not. There seems to be a financial consideration in the project and if Reno can put up the warerwith she may be chosen as the favored spot.

Off for the Mountains.

James Kerr and wife and Constable Leeper and family left yesterday for several days outing in the mountains. The party will stop at Galena Creek and in the course of their experience will probably drift over to Incline on Lake Tahoe.

The Davis leaching plant at Dayton, which has been running on river material of the Carson River Dredge Company, has so far worked about nine hundred tons, and it has proved that there is a fair margin in the working of the tailings.

AMERICAN TOURISTS.

Devote Themselves Abroad to Things They Wouldn't See at Home.

"One of the curiosities of American travel abroad," said a tourist who has just returned from his annual spring jaunt on the continent, "is a man's anxiety to look at the very things in Europe that he can see, if he will, at his own doorstep at home." For instance, about every young New Yorker who passes a few weeks on the continent goes to all the zoological gardens mentioned in the guide books. In Dresden he may ignore the Bruhl terrace, take but a fleeting glance at the wonderful art gallery, and hardly wink at the footprints of the great Napoleon, but he will gaze for a whole afternoon at the bears and lions, tigers and elephants in the zoological garden, although at home he never would dream of passing half the time in the park or circus menagerie; in fact, probably would not think of going to either once a year.

"He does the same thing in Vienna, in Paris, in Frankfurt and in Berlin. In each of these towns there are a thousand rare sights that he never will see duplicated in his native land, but he leaves half of them unobserved to hunt up more bears, lions and tigers in the local menageries.

"Next to the zoological gardens, the churches seem to have the strongest hold on the American sightseers. Now, outside of a few masterpieces of cathedral architecture, central European churches do not appeal to the untrained eye any more than do many of our fine American churches. The time used by the average American youth in examining spires and gables at vaults, altars and chancels is just so much time wasted, as, to his eye, the whole exhibition is just what he sees any day in passing St. Paul's or old Trinity, or the cathedral. Yet he clings to those churches as he does to the zoological gardens, just because they are mentioned in the guide books.

"I might add to this list of time-wasting practices the American habit of visiting and lingering around all the monuments to men, big and small, in European cities. Men who never turn to right or left in New York to distinguish between a statue and a drinking fountain race wildly on the continent after the most insignificant public statues, as if every public monument were as worthy as the Arch of Triumph in Paris, or the Brandenburg gate in Berlin, or the Trafalgar square shaft in London. And while chasing up these animals and churches and commonplace statues of people they never heard of the American tourists neglect the art galleries, the libraries, the great military spectacles and the peculiarly national entertainments whose like they never have seen and cannot find on this side of the water."—N. Y. Sun.

Making Up Linen.

The linen suits which will be very much worn require a certain handling to bring out their good qualities. The skirts are not to be lined, for they are strictly wash dresses, but they need a ten-inch facing cut to the shape of the skirt, not merely a bias strip. If a close-fitting Eton jacket is wished to set snug to the figure it should be lined with the thin, pearly, boned and hooked in front, with a corselet belt fastened permanently over it. If a loose, separate vest of chiffon, embroidery, etc., is worn, and the regular jacket—not jacket waist—wished, it is padded and not boned; the collar is then attached to the vest. Do not line the sleeves, as this is intended for a summer gown of delightful coolness. The separate linen crash skirts are neat with shirt waists are cut 4 1/2 yards to 5 yards wide, have an 8-inch facing shaped to the skirt and the front and side seams folded over and stitched down on the right side. Such a skirt requires 3 yards of 36-inch goods and 7 yards of 40, including the facing.—American Queen.

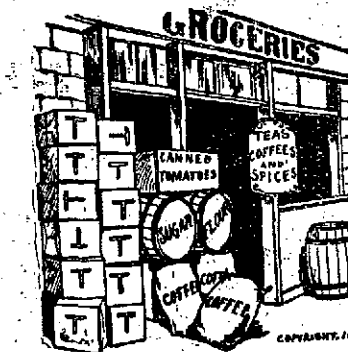

Frozen Coffee Custard.

Eight eggs, one pint cream, one pound sugar, two pints milk, one pint strong coffee. Scald milk, beat eggs and sugar until light, and add to hot milk. Cook for an instant, take off fire and add cream and coffee. Freeze.—American Caterer.
